

Emily Neely, MD

Session: Update in Diabetes Management: Making Sense of the Emerging Therapies

Dr. Emily Neely is originally from Mississippi and completed medical school at University of MS Medical Center. She moved to Nashville for Internal Medicine Residency at Vanderbilt University. Her Endocrinology Fellowship was completed at University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She and her family were homesick for Nashville and moved back as soon as they could. She is currently in private practice at Endocrinology Diabetes Associates. She and her husband spend their spare time trying to keep up with their three children.